Tishman Center's Interim Strategic Plan for Strengthening Environmental Justice

This important moment following the elections calls for our steadfast commitment and solidarity with our communities of practice and partners.

In September, the Tishman Environment and Design Center prepared an Interim Strategic Plan to help guide our work. The plan considers the emerging needs and changing conditions that could arise in the months ahead. It includes short—and mid-term strategies to ensure the Center is well-positioned to support those on the frontlines and our EJ movement partners.

Read the Interim Strategic Plan, *Safeguarding Environmental Justice through a Shifting Political Landscape.*

- Strengthening regional EJ movement capacity.
- Mobilizing resources for urgent movement needs.
- Amplifying messaging to drive equitable climate policies.
- Bridging academia and community efforts to foster just community partnerships.

As we look ahead to the next several months and four years, the Tishman Center remains steadfast in its mission to help realize healthy, generative, and thriving EJ communities.
